Senator Declares That He Is Not Able To "See Any Excuse for Georgia Organization."

PATRONAGE PROBE IN GEORGIA ENDED

Postmistress at Conyers Tells Committee of Paying Five Per Cent of Her Salary.

After hearing testimony that five per cent of her salary was the customary payment of postmasters to the Georgia G. O. P. central committee, and that the amount collected was spent for salaries and expenses in Georgia, the senate subcommittee adjourned its Atlanta session Wednesday afternoon and left for Washington where a conference will be held today with the postmaster general. Later the probe is expected to investigate patronage charges in Mississippi.

Before leaving Atlanta, Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, chairman of the subcommittee of the senate appointed to investigate charges of Georgia senators that federal offices in this state were sold to the men or women who could pay most for them, scored the conduct of the state republican committee in levying tribute to federal officeholders.

"I can't see any excuse for such organization," he said. "I don't say that we have evidence on which to base prosecution for violations of a federal statute, but from the testimony we have heard it seems to be fairly clear that this crowd has collected a lot of money and so far as I can see all it has been used for has been to pay salaries to committee members and incidental expenses. I can't see any use in an organization that functions only once every four years maintaining so much activity."

$1,200 Expenses Monthly. The senator referred to testimony before the committee purporting to prove that Ben Davis and his associates collected from federal office holders over the state enough money to make an expense account of approximately $1,200 each month. "Apparently the republican national committee hasn't been getting any of the money," he said.

The committee over which Brookhart presided was charged by the senate with conducting the investigation in Georgia and other southern states and reporting back to senate in December. The committee, composed of Senator Brookhart and Senator Locher, of Ohio, will study the testimony taken and plan a more comprehensive survey of the patronage situation.

"If the facts warrant, of course, we will recommend legislation to remedy any deplorable condition that may exist," Brookhart said.

"It is my opinion that the appointment of postmasters should be determined entirely by the rating applicants for the positions both in civil

An eleven hour attempt will be made by Gower's attorneys, it was said, to obtain executive clemency in the way of a respite. A hearing to this end will be held before Governor Hardman Thursday.

PLAN TO UNITE FARM AND DRY PARTIES FAILS

Merger Proposal for 1928 Presidential Campaign Put Off by Prohibition Leaders at Convention.

BOTH DEMOCRATS AND G. O. P. SCORED

Liquor Foes Attack Platform Adopted at Kansas City and Houston; Nullification Is Charged

Chicago, July 11.—(United News.) Abandoning the proposal to merge with the farmer-laborites, the prohibition party in convention here today took up the committee draft of its platform which beckons to all friends of prohibition to join under its party banner to fight for the dry cause.

The coalition proposal was definitely set aside tonight when the farmer-laborites in convention assembled decided that no further progress could be made to bring the two parties together in the November election, and that no further overtures would be made.

Beyond stating that they intended to carry the case higher, lawyers for the convicted financiers made no definite disclosures as to their plan of action. In the meantime, Solicitor John A. Boykin will continue, he stated, to work on plans for bringing Manley to trial in September on several of the numerous other indictments which are pending against him.

Constitutionality of the state banking law was attacked by attorneys for Manley in the appeal to the supreme court. The court by a vote of four to two decided that no constitutional provision had been violated in the case of Manley and also held that no reversible error was found in the charge given to the jury by Judge G. H. Howard, trial judge.

Manley is at his home on Pace's Ferry road and is said to be exceedingly sick. He has not been informed of the decision of the supreme court, according to statements made by his family. It is feared by members of his family that the shock of the news of the decision possibly might prove fatal to the convicted man.

Communists Arrested in Spain After Attempt To Overthrow Monarchy Is Revealed.

Bordeaux, France, July 11.—(United News.)—More than 500 communists and extremists, charged with a gigantic plot to overthrow the Spanish government, have been arrested in a series of raids which extended over a wide area, it was reported here tonight from reliable Spanish sources. The raids centered in the provinces of Catalonia and Galicia.

According to authoritative reports, the government discovered a conspiracy to overthrow the monarchy on July 17, when King Alfonso and Premier Primo de Rivera are to attend the opening of the Pyrenean tunnel at Caunac, a small Spanish town.

Much Interest in Europe. An official note released to the press tonight appealed to all patriots to refuse to respond to invitations to join the conspirators. The note caused a sensation through the nation and, coupled with the arrest of a large number

BIG CHARITY FUND VOTED BY ELKS

National Foundation of $20,000,000 Is Approved by Delegates to Convention at Miami.

Miami, Fla., July 11.—(United News.)—A national foundation fund of $20,000,000 to be devoted to charity needs was adopted by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at a session of the 64th annual grand lodge today.

The fund, to be used to supplement and assist charitable enterprises conducted by local and state organizations of the Elks, will be put in operation as soon as possible.

The Elks were entertained today by a 60-piece mouth-organ band composed of small boys from Lake Worth, Fla.

Only delegates who had to attend sessions were up before noon today. Other visitors to the convention slept late after all night revelry following election of officers and selection of the next convention city Tuesday.

Murray Hulbert, New York, newly elected grand exalted ruler, delivered his acceptance speech today, and told the delegates he was opposed to organization of a junior order known as the Antlers. He said, however, he would be governed by the will of the majority.

An amendment to the Elks' constitution, adopted at Cincinnati at the last grand lodge, provided for organization of the Antlers, but it never was formed.

RASKOB IS CHOSEN TO LEAD CAMPAIGN FOR DEMOCRATS

Business Leader, Close Friend of Smith's, Succeeds Shaver as National Committee Chairman.

New York, July 11.—(AP)—A leader in the business and industrial world—John J. Raskob, of General Motors corporation, and E. I. Dupont De Nemours—will direct Governor Smith's campaign for the presidency.

Raskob, who never has been active politically and who is listed in "Who's Who" as a republican, was named to succeed Clem Shaver as chairman of the democratic national committee, at a harmonious organization meeting of the committee here today. He is a close friend of the presidential nominee, who suggested his selection.

Born in New York state at Lockport, the new chairman calls Claymont, Del., his home. He also has a summer residence at Centerville, Md., where Governor Smith went last Saturday to attend the funeral of one of his sons, killed in an automobile accident.

Lehman Handles Finance. Given wide powers by the national committee, Raskob immediately appointed Herbert Lehman, New York investment banker, as director of finance, succeeding Jesse H. Jones, of Houston. He also was authorized to name an advisory committee and without delay announced the selection of Senator Gerry, of Rhode Island, as its chairman.

Raskob, small of stature and mild-mannered, was a "dark horse" for the committee chairmanship. Until today Senator Gerry and a few others had figured mainly in speculation. His appointment was proposed by Josiah Marvel, of Delaware, at the meeting, which lasted only 45 minutes.

The new chairman's first act was to deliver a brief speech in which he warned the police against meddling in the coming campaign; declared that the party never had enjoyed such prospects of success at the polls; and asserted that Smith, if elected, could be depended upon to control the liquor traffic in the direction of the nation's affairs.

Raskob Makes Speech. He also described the nominee as a friend of the farmer, and referred to the office of prohibition as "a mining word." "If, as a result of careful study," Raskob said, "he can evolve a plan for the regulation and control of the liquor traffic in a way that will absolutely prevent the return of the saloon, eliminate bootlegging, with its accompanying evils—drugs, corruption and murder—and restore temperate life in our country, then all fair-minded men must admit his rights to the presidency."

Factional differences within the convention was blamed today for the failure of the delegates to act favorably on their committee's recommendation to form a coalition of the prohibition

KILLINGS ON STREET AND IN ACTIVITY OF LAW FORCES SCORED IN DEMANDS TO HEADS.

FEAR OF CHICAGO DILEMMA CITED

Four Men and One Woman Arrested for Killings in Brooklyn by Gunmen.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 11.—(United News.)—Four men and a woman were under arrest tonight in connection with the murder Monday night of Go-Itto Marrero and Florentino San Just, who were shot down by five men in a speeding automobile.

Those held were: Miss Annette Allison, 20, whose parents were reported wealthy residents of Akron, Ohio; Harry Savetierre, 25, a friend of the Allison girl; John Tutone, 27, and two other men arrested last night. All denied knowledge of the murders.

AUTHORITIES DEMAND "CLEAN UP."

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Recent gang murders in New York streets have brought demands from the city administration to break up the gang warfare.

District Attorney McGehean, of the Bronx, called upon the police to drive the gangsters out of his borough, promising the full cooperation of his office and a pledge from the Bronx county grand jury to back up the police in an offensive against the gangs.

W. J. L. Balam, president of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, wrote to Mayor Walker protesting against the failure of the police to prevent gangsters from using the public streets as battlegrounds.

Cites Chicago Dilemma. "Will it be necessary for the citizens of New York to organize and raise a huge sum of money, as was done in Chicago, to restore law and order?" Mr. Balam asked.

Meanwhile, the police apparently had made no progress in their efforts to solve the murder of Frankie Uale, Brooklyn gang leader, or Ben Lee Todd, who was shot in the back of the head by a man in a car in Manhattan, who was killed by a bomb attached to the starter of his automobile.

Clint Perian, called the "Clutching Hand" because his left hand is twisted as the result of a knife wound, was released after police had failed to secure any information from him as to the identity of Uale's slayers.

Gangster Will Not Talk. Perian, a close associate of the slain leader, is believed by police to know who killed Uale and why, but like other of the gangster's lieutenants, he refused to reveal his own part in the crime without recourse to the law. The police were forced to release the "Clutching Hand" when the burglary charge on which he had been held while they questioned him was dismissed for lack of evidence.

A 22-year-old woman, Celia Metz-

GEORGIA BANK BANDIT NABBED IN BALTIMORE

Ernest Waller, Indicted for Murder of Kingsland Cashier, Is Captured After Wild Chase.

2 UNDER SENTENCE OF DEATH IN CHAIR

Woman Member of Quartet Who Planned Robbery Serving Life Term for Part in Plot.

Baltimore, Md., July 11.—(AP)—Recognition of a man who told police he was Ernest J. Waller, of Jacksonville, Fla., by another Jacksonville resident, as they met on a street here brought about Waller's arrest for alleged participation in a murder and bank robbery at Kingsland, Ga.

R. O. Swearingin, of Jacksonville, pointed Waller out to a traffic policeman who with another officer chased the man through crowds of home-going workers until they cornered him. Police said Waller admitted being implicated in the crime but declared it was only as driver of an automobile that was used.

Swearingin said Waller and two others had lured a bank employee to a lonely spot by offering some real estate for sale, killed him when he refused to surrender the bank keys and then got $5,000 from the bank, using the keys taken from his body.

WANTED ON CHARGE OF KILLING CASHIER.

Kingsland, Ga., July 11.—(AP)—Ernest J. Waller, captured by Baltimore police today, is wanted here to answer charges of murder in connection with the slaying of C. A. Perry, cashier of the Bank of Kingsland, and the robbery of the institution in February.

Waller, was one of four persons indicted for the slaying and robbery and the only one of the quartet to escape. The others, Homer Simpson, Malcolm Morrow, and Mrs. Manie Lee Todd, were apprehended in Jacksonville, Fla., a few days after the crime and have already been tried. Morrow and Simpson were sentenced to death when tried for murder and Mrs. Todd was sentenced to the penitentiary as an accessory.

Mr. Bowen said following his inspection.

"The most important thing is to rebuild the curtain wall in the wood shop and to grade the surrounding land so as to prevent water flowing into the basement. It would take a week of the outside to correct the faults of the building. I can not say who was at fault in permitting the

ACTION BY BOARD ON GRADY SCHOOL URGED BY WARREN

Commissioner Favors Demand for Damages; Building Not Dangerous, Says Bowen.

Announcement that a survey of the Henry W. Grady High School for Boys has shown that the building is not in a dangerous condition for occupancy when the schools open, and the statement by Commissioner Roy D. Warren that he would lead a movement to obtain damages from "the parties responsible for the faulty construction" of Wednesday following the action of the board of education Tuesday asking C. J. Bowen, building inspector, to inspect the school.

Mr. Bowen, accompanied by Mr. Warren, who is chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the board, made the inspection Wednesday which resulted in the announcement by the inspector that the building is resting on a firm foundation and is sound but that there are a number of defects that should be corrected and that this work would require approximately $10,000.

Defects Are Charged. "The building is one of the most faultily constructed I ever saw," Mr. Warren declared, "and if the board of education will support me, I will seek the aid of City Attorney James L. Mayson in an effort to indemnify the city for money it has spent and for which it failed to get full value."

Although Mr. Bowen failed to find any immediate danger, he recommended among other things establishment of a new grade on the outer walls to prevent the influx of storm water which might eventually undermine the foundation; reconstruction of a certain wall in the wood shop, relaying a sudden floor in the toilet, repainting of the walls of the entire building and repair of doors and certain windows.

There is no danger to students with the possible exception of a falling brick in the shop, where there is a fissure about 20 feet long between a curtain and the retaining wall. Mr. Bowen's report will show when he completes it today and transmits it to officials of the board of education.

STAY WITH PARTY, SAYS RUTHERFORD

Macon, Ga., July 11.—(AP)—"No democrat will desert his party now or at any other time if he will make a visit to Washington and see at first hand the workings of the republicans in congress," declared Congressman Sam Rutherford, of the sixth Georgia district, in an address here today before the Rotary club.

The congressman was scheduled to talk on "agriculture," but he said that he couldn't refrain from touching on the political situation, also.

"Did you know that the republicans who vote 'regular,' who follow the crack of the leader's whip, never has to spend a penny for reelection back home? Money is supplied to him and plenty of it. But the poor democrat has to root for himself."

"Forget your differences and stand together," pleaded the congressman. "We must stand united now, we have too much at stake for the good of our people."

JEWISH CHARITIES REPORT HELPFUL SERVICE IN JUNE

A record of helpful charity relief in the special field it serves as a unit of the Community Chest was reported by the Federation of Jewish Charities in a review Wednesday of its activities in the last month. In its department of relief and service, the federation reported aiding 122 families.

Employment was found for five applicants, six families were returned to other cities, one case of desertion was handled with effective remedy, three cases were referred to the Red Cross, which is concerned with the special work of aiding indigent ex-service men and their families, and one to the tuberculosis association.

In addition to this relief work, the federation sustained other activities, including the Hirsch clinic, the young people's department, and constructive work within the Jewish Educational alliance. The report was made to the Community Chest by E. M. Kahn, executive secretary of the federation.

DIVORCED TUESDAY, SHIRLEY MARRIES AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Wilfred Shirley, divorced Tuesday from Mrs. Mary Shirley on the grounds she had deserted him in 1912, on Wednesday married Miss Ildra Hardy after a solicitor at the divorce hearing had asked:

"If your wife has deserted you, who is it your neighbors know as 'Mrs. Shirley'?" Shirley lives on Greenwood avenue. His neighbor explained his client married Miss Hardy three years ago under the supposition that his first wife had obtained a divorce.

Other witnesses in uncontested divorce cases before Judge E. D. Thomas, after Shirley had been questioned by state's attorneys, were meticulously careful in offering testimony.

SALVATION ARMY MUST PAY LICENSE FOR JUNK BUSINESS

Members of the tax committee of city council Wednesday afternoon declined to relieve the Salvation Army from payment of license for operation of a junk and resale business in Atlanta and instructed Walter C. Taylor, city clerk, to proceed to collect the fees, despite an appeal from army officials that the committee reconsider a former decision compelling payment of the money.

The committee held that the army was making a profit on the resale of articles and, therefore, is subject under the city laws to the levy for the businesses they operate.

Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth ward, chairman of the committee, presided at the session. Other routine matters also were considered by the committee.

Boys Start Auto Junket Planned Seven Years Ago

Plans for an automobile tour of the United States made seven years ago while the participants were all high school students, were materialized Wednesday when five Georgia boys left for the Pacific coast. The boys, who have been separated since attending high school at Bowersville, Hart county, and who have reunited for the trip, are Roland Fisher, Shields Hilliard, Bob Stephenson, Fred Ridgeway, and Robert Gaines, Jr.

The group has pooled its funds and purchased a Ford truck in which will be carried enough equipment for camping at night. Travel will be in day-

GOLFER-THIEF STEALS 3 CLUBS FROM STORE

The golf fever apparently has claimed another victim in the form of a thief who, Tuesday night, burglarized the Virginia Avenue Hardware store, at 906 Virginia avenue. The nocturnal visitor chose golf clubs as the principal part of his loot, according to reports made to police Wednesday morning by the proprietor, S. L. Braxton.

Gaining entrance through a skylight the intruder elected to remove only three golf clubs and a shotgun, a check of the stock showed.

Light only, and the boys will work in various cities of the country in order to earn nearly all their expense money.

A letter of introduction from Governor Hardman will accompany the travelers, and they will attempt to secure the signatures of officials in other states and cities.

Every veteran in the state is invited, and those who expect to be present are asked to notify by mail the chairman of the Georgia veterans' association, J. L. Moore, 1420 Peachtree street, Atlanta.

Georgia Banking Head Denied Right To Sue By Court of Appeals

The court of appeals Wednesday ruled that the state superintendent of banks has no authority in law to bring suit against certain stockholders of ten banks which were connected with the Manly chain of banks under the circumstances governing the case on trial. The court ruled that the cases appealed from the lower court should be thrown out of court.

In these cases suit was brought by A. B. Mobley, superintendent of the state banking department, against J. A. Sasser, Paul D. Baker and John D. Russell, officers of the Bankers' Trust company, which controlled the Manly chain of banks. The superintendent of banks sought to collect from these stockholders the difference between the amount of the stock they

USE OF ALABAMA FUNDS FOR FARM PRIZES ILLEGAL

Montgomery, Ala., July 11.—(P)—Use of any part of the agricultural fund of the state for premiums awarded as prizes at state fairs in Alabama is illegal, Attorney General McCall held today in a formal opinion rendered at the request of the chief state examiner of public accounts.

Under this opinion an appropriation of $10,000 authorized by the state board of agriculture at a meeting in Montgomery yesterday is unauthorized by law and therefore cannot stand.

Make-up Coarsen Skin? That Depends on How You Remove It

Now gentle palm and olive oil are embodied in a special soap to bring out natural loveliness and safeguard the finest skin

The real danger in make-up lies in the way you remove it. For unless it is removed each night carefully and thoroughly, pores will clog, skin will be blemished and sallow. Cleanse your skin with palm and olive oil in the rich lather of a beauty soap to keep its texture fine, its color glowing and youthful.

Use Palmolive, a soap uniquely embodying these priceless beauty oils. They penetrate and cleanse like nothing else will do. Every night give skin the following care and forget about looking old: Gently massage Palmolive lather into the face for two minutes, using your own two hands. Allow the oily lather to penetrate and cleanse each pore. Then rinse with warm water, then cold. Dry by gently patting. A touch of cream if skin is naturally dry. That is all. But don't expect Palmolive results unless you use Palmolive. The Palmolive-Peet Company, Chicago, Ill.

HOLDER DESCRIBES HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Brunswick, Ga., July 11.—(Special)—The completion of the coastal highway, which Brunswick celebrated today, which connects the south and the north on the Atlantic Seaboard, is "but one of the important phases of the paving program of the Georgia state highway department." Chairman John N. Holder, declared in an address here today.

In addition to this splendid paved highway, the speaker declared, "forming as it does a link in a highway running from Canada on the north to the Gulf of Mexico on the south, Georgia is at present rapidly completing several other major cross-state highways, and is doing considerable construction on others. In the near future the great through-state highway from the Tennessee line, near Chattanooga, to the Florida line, near Valdosta, will be completed. Between Atlanta and the Florida line—a distance of more than 250 miles—the paving on this highway has been completed, and there remains to be paved on this link only about 20 miles, which is now under construction. On the link between Atlanta and Chattanooga, contracts have been let for all of the unpaved portion and the work is being rapidly done.

"The 90-mile highway from Atlanta to the Alabama line, below West Point, has been completed, and a connection from this road to Columbus, Ga., via Greenville, will soon be paved."

Unpaved portions of the highway between Atlanta and the North Carolina line are being rapidly constructed, he declared.

BRITISH ANSWER TO ANTI-WAR NOTE IS IN PREPARATION

London, July 11.—(P)—The British reply to the American anti-war proposals, in the opinion of Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of state for foreign affairs, will be forwarded to Washington before the end of the parliamentary session.

The secretary made this announcement in the house of commons today in reply to questions. He took the responsibility for what some of the questioners characterized as delay in answering the American note.

Heckled by Colonel Josiah Wedgwood, laborite, who asked if Sir Austen intended "to wreck this proposal by insisting upon his reservations," the foreign secretary declared: "I do not propose to wreck the proposal. I welcome the proposal, and I wish to bring it to a successful conclusion."

DEAD WOMAN, 40, FOUND IN FLORIDA, BELIEVED OHIOAN

Miami, Fla., July 11.—(P)—Belief that the body of a 40-year-old woman, scantily clad, which was found near Biscayne Bay yesterday was that of Mrs. May Muncey Thompson, of Hamilton, Ohio, was expressed to authorities here today by Police Chief Jarvis of Lake Worth, Fla.

Jarvis said Mrs. Thompson, who had been employed by the government in Lake Worth, recently had disappeared and that the description of the dead woman partially fitted the missing woman.

A man, who gave his name as "Red" Thompson, was arrested today and taken to police headquarters for questioning. He is said to be the Ohio woman's husband.

An inquest over the body, which bore marks of assault, police said, was postponed indefinitely today.

PROSPERITY REIGNS IN SOUTHERN GEORGIA

Waycross, Ga., July 11.—The permanency of the prosperity in the Waycross district is evident from the announcement today by E. K. Bennett, referee in bankruptcy, that not a single business or individual went into bankruptcy during the past twelve months in Atkinson, Brantley, Camden, Charlton, Coffee and Pierce counties.

Wayne county and Clinch county had only one bankruptcy each. Appling county had two, Bacon county three, Glynn county six, Ben Hill county nine, and Ware county thirty-four.

Of these fifty-six cases of bankruptcy filed in the Waycross district only 13 were for business firms. Forty-three petitions for bankruptcy were made by individuals and consequently these had a small effect in business circles.

The growth in prosperity in the Waycross district is shown by the number of cases of bankruptcy pending. On June 30, 1924, there were 205 cases. On June 30, 1925, there were 183 cases. On June 30, 1926, there were 37 cases. On June 30, 1927, there were 30 cases. On June 30, 1928, there were 22 cases.

This means that within the past five years the cases pending have been reduced from 205 to 22, which is a very remarkable decrease.

GREEK EX-DICTATOR, IN PRISON 2 YEARS, FREED OF TREASON

Athens, Greece, July 11.—(P)—General Theodoros Pangalos, who was thrown into prison in August, 1926, after being ordered to resign, was freed today. He had been awaiting trial for treason.

EAUGALLIE, FLA., STATE BANK FAILS TO OPEN DOORS

Melbourne, Fla., July 11.—(P)—The Eauggallie State Bank of Eauggallie, Fla., four miles north of here, with a capital of $50,000, failed to open its doors this morning for business following concerted efforts of directors and stockholders to increase its cash and business.

Heavy withdrawals during the past few days occasioned the decision of the bank officials not to open this morning. Recent efforts include a cash assessment of $75 per share to stockholders, some of which has been paid, according to stockholders.

Dr. Glenn Henley, of Melbourne, resigned as director of the Melbourne State bank three months ago to assume the presidency of the Eauggallie bank.

LOUISVILLE BANK ROBBERS SNATCH $4,500; GET AWAY

CAPT. CAMPBELL WILL SEEK SPEED RECORD IN SYRIA

London, July 11.—(United News.) Captain Malcolm Campbell will depart for the Syrian desert early in September in an effort to break the world's automobile speed record, it was learned today.

Captain Campbell discovered a 60-mile stretch of flat, sunbaked clay on the desert 200 miles east of Damascus which he says is superior to Daytona Beach, although it is difficult to reach. Daytona Beach, the captain believes, is not fast enough for the newest racing cars.

Due to the danger of Arab raids the captain will be protected by French soldiers armed with machine guns and himself will carry a revolver during the attempt.

REVIVAL AT M'RAE ATTRACTS ATTENTION

McRae, Ga., July 11.—Rev. J. C. G. Brooks, presiding elder of the McRae district of the South Georgia conference of the Methodist church, is leading in a revival meeting at Scotland. Rev. L. T. Rogers is pastor of the Scotland church. The preaching of the Rev. Mr. Brooks is attracting much attention, and the strength of his sermons is praised by all who have heard him in this series.

At the same time, Rev. E. A. Sanders, of the Jacksonville charge, is being assisted in a series of revival services, by the Rev. C. D. Herrington, pastor of the Haxley circuit. The Rev. Mr. Herrington has established a rather remarkable record during the present conference year, having received on his own charge more than 100 on profession of faith. It is believed that this is perhaps as high a number as will be reported to date by any charge in the entire conference.

CITY GETS CLEAR DAY, HEAVY RAINS

Given its first respite from almost torrential rains in several days the city waterworks department Tuesday began to lower the mud count from the drinking water supply while the street cleaning department rid the streets of mud and debris and the Georgia Power company repaired jammed light and power facilities and the Southern Bell Telephone company restored damaged and broken lines of communication.

The tremendous rainfall brought the mud count in city water up from 110 parts per one million to 3,500 parts per one million, a test made revealed. But the water rapidly is being returned to standard, W. Zode Smith, general manager of the city waterworks, reported. The water is all being filtered and treated with liquid chlorine to eliminate bacteria.

"Returning the water to standard is purely a normal process," Mr. Smith said. "We are working night and day to eliminate the mud and debris brought about by the heavy rains. The water now is almost as fit for drinking purposes as it is under normal conditions."

Threatened continuance of the rainfall earlier in the week failed to materialize Wednesday, although the city was beneath overcast skies most of the day.

Miss Rachell Pruitt Given $200 "Opportunity" Check

CHARMING WINNER MAKES FINE STAGE APPEARANCE

Before an enthusiastic audience that heartily applauded the choice it had made the week before, Miss Rachell Pruitt, who last week was named by Keith Georgia audiences as the most suitable girl in Atlanta for the screen opportunity offered by The Constitution and Keith's Georgia theater Wednesday night was presented with a check for $200, also a prize in the contest by Manager C. Rollins Eggleston.

Quite self-possessed as though she were born for the stage, the diminutive and charming Miss Pruitt extended her thanks to the audience who had afforded her the honor, to Keith's Georgia and to The Constitution, by proxy, through Manager Eggleston, himself a former stage star, and whose voice was better suited to the large auditorium, Miss Pruitt felt, than her own.

POLICE CHARGED VARE FOE HURLS NEW FRAUD COUNT

New Orleans, July 11.—(AP)—Antipathy of New Orleans business men as represented by the Association of Commerce Toward Gambling reached an unprecedented height today when the association's anti-gambling committee appeared before a special committee of the city council and charged that gambling houses and book makers flourished here under the "protection of constituted authorities."

W. S. Bender, chairman of the anti-gambling committee, declared conditions in New Orleans had reached such a state that the city was a mecca for gamblers, narcotics peddlers and addicts, gamblers and others of the underworld.

Maurice Picholoup, a member of the city board of park commissioners asserted race track gambling in the city was conducted on such a wide scale that a handbook is operated in every fifth house in the city.

The association committee appeared before the council commission after Governor P. P. Long had refused to act on their petition to suppress gambling houses in adjoining parishes until the evil had been eliminated in New Orleans proper. The petition declared business was being vitally affected by the wage earners losing their money at the gaming tables.

Supporting the charge that gamblers were paying for protection, Leon Heymann, chairman of the retail merchants' bureau of the association, told the commission he was in possession of reliable information that one gambling establishment in the city paid $8,000 to members of the police department within a "short time" for protection against molestation.

Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe was forced to retire from the meeting early by illness. In his absence City Commissioner T. Semmes Walmsley said the city officials were aware of their responsibilities and in the course of the next few days would issue a statement as to the authorities' course of action.

Denial that gambling was being carried on in New Orleans under police protection was made by Superintendent of Police Thomas A. Healy when informed of the charges made at the association of commerce conference with the commission council.

"This is the first I have heard of the charge and I am going to investigate it," Mr. Healy stated in reference to the alleged $8,000 protection money. "If I can find any evidence involving any member of the police force in bribery he will not only be dismissed from the force but will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

"The police here are not protecting gambling houses on the other hand are doing everything possible to stamp it out. We are handicapped by the size of our force but we have been making arrests for hand books and lottery every day."

"We have a police force here of less than 1,000 men and are covering an area larger than New York city with this force. We are doing the best we can and I believe we have stamped out all open gambling. The small offenders, handbooks, lotteries and slot machines, we are cleaning out as fast as possible."

A. C. MINHINNETT RETIRES FROM RACE FOR LEGISLATURE

A. C. Minhinnett, Jr., assistant solicitor in Judge Jesse M. Wood's criminal court of Atlanta, announced his retirement Wednesday as a candidate for the state legislature, opposing Miss Bessie Kempton, the incumbent, in the democratic primary of September 12.

"I consented to enter the race at solicitation of my friends," Solicitor Minhinnett said, "but after consideration I am convinced that, should I be elected, the office would require more of my time than I would be able to give. I wish to thank my many friends for the assurance of support they have given me."

Saleeby and his wife were assassinated on Saturday night within a few yards of their doorway. A policeman who pursued the assassins was also killed. Sixteen knife wounds were found in the body of M. Saleeby. Mrs. Saleeby, a clerk in the American consulate at Beirut, was Carrie Erd,

Miami, Fla., July 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Thorkildsen, 27, formerly of Troy, N. Y., was held in county jail here today, charged with the murder of her husband, Conrad Thorkildsen, 44, at their home here this morning. Authorities say that Mrs. Thorkildsen made a signed confession in which she admitted killing her husband in a fit of temper and in self-defense, but did not remember what kind of weapon she used. She said her husband fired a shotgun at her.

service examinations. I don't see any use in having examinations to determine the fitness of an applicant for the place if the person making the highest rating is thrust aside and the job given to the second or third highest because of political preference or financial considerations. There is too much of that sort of thing."

Pay Five Per Cent.

Miss Esther McCullum, postmaster at Conyers, Ga., told the committee at its closing hearing Wednesday afternoon that she understood that she must pay 5 per cent of her salary in order to hold her job.

Miss McCullum said she came to Atlanta regarding an application for reappointment and talked with John W. Martin, treasurer of the central committee.

"Did Mr. Martin demand of you a sum of money in order for you to obtain reappointment?" queried Senator Locher, who conducted the questioning during the afternoon session Wednesday.

Sum Not Demanded.

"No, he did not demand anything, but he told me it was customary for postmasters to give a certain per cent of their salary to the republican organization."

"How much?"

"Five per cent, or about $100 a year for me."

"Do you have any understanding by which you are to pay five per cent of your salary?" Senator Locher asked.

"No."

"You paid into the treasury just about the amount Mr. Martin suggested," queried Senator Smith W. Brookhart, chairman.

"Yes, about that amount, five per cent," the woman replied.

Senator Brookhart asked her whether she had told a postal inspector that a friend, now dead, paid $500 to Martin in her behalf.

"No, that is not the way I told him."

to write it," the postmistress replied. "What I said was in answer to a question as to who might have paid Mr. Martin $500 for me, if it had been paid. I said I knew of only one man who might have done such a thing for me, and that was in my town and who was now dead and whose name I did not want to reveal."

"Didn't you talk to Mr. Crawford about this payment?" pressed Senator Brookhart. The person referred to was Louis E. Crawford, United States marshal here.

"Yes," she replied, the witness, and, under further questioning, related that she had been sent to Crawford by W. R. Watson, former postmaster at Lithonia, Ga., who, she said, had advised her to pay $300 to $400 in cash.

"What did Crawford tell you?" asked Brookhart.

"He told me not to pay it," the woman replied.

Watson's Reply.

Miss McCullum then said that after she had told Watson about Crawford's advice that he had said he "didn't know what to think about that." She said that men who had been in politics all their lives had advised her that money would be required before she could get the appointment.

Senator Locher then joined Senator Brookhart in trying to determine whether she went to Watson's house before or after she had talked to Martin.

Did Not Find Martin.

She went to Martin's office after she came to Atlanta to see Roscoe Pickett, chairman of the committee, and did not find him, she said.

Asked if she afterwards saw Pickett, the witness replied that she did and that he told her not to pay any money. "He told me he would take care of me," she said.

Negotiations for the filling of the postmastership at Stockbridge was the highlight of the morning session. T. J. Davis, an unsuccessful applicant for the office, accused Ben J. Davis, negro national committeeman, of having asked him $250 for the position.

T. J. Davis said he had obtained his endorsement and that Davis told him the county official was not authorized to collect any money.

On cross-examination by Attorney Howard, attorney for the republican committee, Davis denied that he had voluntarily offered to pay Ben Davis $250 for his recommendation, and that Davis had told him that such an offer automatically disqualified him for the office.

Attorney Howard asked that Ben Davis be allowed to return to the stand and testify in rebuttal to the statement of T. J. Davis. Ben Davis said:

"I had recommended a Mr. Wilson for the appointment at Stockbridge. Several days later Mr. Davis came to my office, said he was an applicant and had the backing of the republican organization, and that he would pay me $500 to get the job. I told him I would not do that, but he said he would pay me $250. I told him that if he paid money for such a purpose and if I accepted it, we would both be committing a crime. I further told him I had already recommended Mr. Wilson for the job and that the appointment was expected any day."

Wilson Teaching School.

"Mr. Wilson was at that time teaching school and his time was expected to be up in the spring. I was advised by the postmaster general that an appointee would have to devote at least seven hours per day to the job as postmaster. Mr. Davis came to my office at least once a day and sometimes more often, trying to get me to recommend him. He said Mr. Wilson was disqualified, that the board of education would not accept his resignation."

One day he came to my office and proceeded to prefer charges against Mr. Wilson, saying that he owed some bills in his home town he had not paid and was in bad standing. He left the bills with me. I sent the bills to Mr. Wilson. A few days later, Mr. Davis returned to my office and asked for the bills, saying that he had made a mistake."

He then renewed his offer of $250 for the appointment and said that someone else would pay for him. I told him that it made no difference who paid it it would be a criminal offense for it to be paid, both on the part of the payee and myself. I again showed him the act of congress covering that."

Mrs. Giddings Testifies.

Mrs. Hattie Giddings, postmistress of Holes, told the committee that she had been solicited for contributions three months before her appointment and that afterwards the attempt to obtain money was renewed. She said she did not pay anything because she did not think it was her duty. Ben Davis recommended her for the position, she said.

J. E. Lee, an unsuccessful applicant for the postoffice at Pearson, next took the stand to assert that two men had offered to insure him the job if he would pay $600. He said he refused to pay the money asked, but he did pay a sum he did not estimate.

Under questioning by Senator George, Lee said the county republican chairman came to him after he declined to pay $600 and told him there "was no use to go further." He said it was generally said throughout the country that the Pearson postoffice was for sale, but that he wanted to "have to pay for it if I wanted the job."

TALESMEN ABSENT
FOR BILOXI PROBE.

Biloxi, Miss., July 11.—(AP)—Organization of a federal grand jury here today to investigate republican methods of distributing federal patronage was delayed until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, when 17 of the 36 talesmen subpoenaed failed to put in an appearance.

Judge H. R. Holmes, of Yazoo City, after holding court in session nearly an hour, announced adjournment and said the absent talesmen each would be fined $100 when they are brought before him unless they establish sufficient reason for not appearing.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willbrandt, assistant United States attorney general, is here with a staff of assistants brought in from over the state to assist the grand jury in its investigation. Mrs. Willbrandt arrived this morning from Atlanta, where a senate committee is investigating disposition of patronage in Georgia.

Upward of 200 postmasters from over the state have been summoned to appear before the grand jury during its session, which is expected to last until next Tuesday. Official estimates placed the number of witnesses here for the session today at between 65 and 75.

Republican patronage in this state long has been a subject of controversy which revolved about Perry W. Howard, negro assistant attorney general and national committeeman from Mississippi. Charges and counter charges have been made by the Howard faction, which is opposed in the state by the "Jolly White" group headed by George L. Shelton, former governor of Nebraska and now a delta resident.

T. J. Willis at his home in Hattiesburg, county for the Shelton group, today forecast "a house cleaning" in the party in the immediate future. He said he had not received a subpoena to appear before the grand jury here.

160 "MISSISSIPPI"
POSTMASTERS CALLED.

Jackson, Miss., July 11.—(AP)—Subpoenas have been issued from the United States marshal's office for the southern district to about 160 Mississippi postmasters, chiefly democrats, to appear before the federal grand jury at Biloxi and testify concerning the manner in which they received their appointments, it was learned here today. The grand jury is expected to convene at Biloxi tomorrow at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the coast city.

Deputies are serving the processes today, and the postmasters are expected to appear and give their testimony before the close of the week.

Tells of Contributions.

G. F. Flanders, who said he had been patronage referee in his district at Swainsboro, and was for 20 years postmaster, told the grand jury that he had received contributions from postmasters which he used for expenses of party conventions.

"I always contributed to the democratic party just as I have to the republican," said Flanders, who testified that he had held the postoffice under both administrations, and that he voted the national republican ticket now, but cast his vote in the democratic primary for local and state offices if there was no federal candidate. "I don't intend to disfigure myself," he declared. "I am going to vote for the man, not allowing any party to lay me out voting for just anybody."

Senator George read into the record an account of the disbursements of the state republican central committee's treasury. Monthly expenditures during 1926 were $84,000, from $100,000 in 1927 to $148,000 in June. During 1928 they were given as ranging from $98,000 in November to $1,128 in February.

Monthly disbursements during 1928 ranged from $871 in January to $902 in March.

Money for Salaries.

"The record of disbursements as supplied to the committee by the treasurer of the state central committee in 1928 was $1,128,000," said Flanders, who testified that there have been no disbursements made to the national committee, or to the district committee, or to county committees, or to candidates, declared Senator George. "The entire sum as indicated by these bank records is the money that has been expended by the state central committee principally for salaries and for office rent and expenses."

Explaining that he had been called upon to make several recommendations for postmasters in his own district, the senator said that he had never heard of any complaints in that section.

Postmaster E. K. Large told the committee that Ben Davis had conferred with him only regarding appointment in the Atlanta office.

"Each time he came to see me regarding applicants for clerkships," said Mr. Large. "I told him I would follow the records of the civil service. They told me to be no no-foundation for the claim that the wall in the shop is settling 1-4 to 1-2 an inch with every rain. The wall is settling because of reinforced concrete and is on a good foundation. I found nothing to indicate a settlement of the wall."

The building was constructed by the Southern Ferro Concrete company; Heutz-Reid-Adler were the architects, and A. Ten Eyck Brown, supervising architect.

Survey of the building was conducted at the insistence of Mr. Warren, who declared he was unwilling for students to occupy it again without the opinion of experts regarding its safety because it "seems unsafe to me, a layman."

Girdlers See Success in Bid For New Mark

Tokyo, July 11.—(AP)—The American aviators, John T. Mears and Charles G. D. Collyer, who arrived here today on their trip around the world, are confident that they will set a new record of 25 days for the globe circuit.

They said that on their trip across Europe they had had varied experiences with good and bad weather, and that their forthcoming flight across the United States from Vancouver seemed simple in prospect to what they had been through. Mears declared their flight had demonstrated the practicability of a regular commercial air route from Europe to Tokyo.

The aviators lost their bearings today after leaving Osaka but quickly picked up a railway-line which they followed through to Tokyo.

They will board the steamer Empress of Russia tomorrow with their plane, the "City of New York" bound for Vancouver, whence they will make direct a flight as possible to New York.

OFFICERS MYSTIFIED
BY SLAYING OF FOUR

Edmonton, Alta., July 11.—(AP)—The slaying of Mrs. Eunice Booher, wife of a prosperous Manitoba farmer, her 25-year-old son and two hired men today was a complete mystery to police. Vernon Booher, shepherd, told the police he discovered the slaying Monday night when he hurried to the house on hearing shots shortly after he had left to bring in the cows.

In the dining room, he said, he found the body of his mother, shot from behind, her head split open from the impact of a rifle bullet. In the kitchen was the body of his brother Fred, shot through the mouth and back.

Rushing out to the barn to seek assistance from the hired men, he said he found Bill Roszak, one of the hands, dead in the barn, a bullet hole in the back of his head. In the bunkhouse was the body of his brother, Gabriel Gornobly, shot through the mouth.

The husband and father, Henry Booher, was a farmer, reported to be at the time of the shooting and the two daughters of the slain woman, Dorothy and Alberta, were at Manitowish, Wis., at the time.

The only clue found was an empty shell from a .303 rifle, which police think was the weapon used by the slayer.

New York, July 11.—There's one thing that can't be given away in the big town. Officials of the street cleaning department are pondering what to do with scrap automobiles. Owners of vacant lots are complaining. A junkman laughs when offered one.

INVENTOR KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Pottsville, Pa., July 11.—(AP)—Two persons were killed today when their airplane crashed into a field at Snyder, 18 miles from here in a storm.

The dead:

Two years ago Titterton planned a trip around the world with John G. Johnson, a writer, in the hope of establishing a new record. They planned to use steamships, airplanes and railroads, but at the last moment Titterton was unable to leave.

Crackers Win Series From Travelers, 5 to 3

Rube Robinson Holds Former Mates Easily

Walter Gilbert Steals Home as Locals Down League Leaders.

Little Rock, Ark., July 11.—With "Rube" Robinson pitching, the Atlanta Crackers took the Travelers, 5 to 3, this afternoon at Kavanaugh field in the opening game of the series. The "Rube" was so much himself that the Travelers got to him only in one inning.

The grand old "Rube" asked Bert Niehoff for the pitching job in the opening game of the series against his old club, not with the idea of gaining revenge for being sold off the club—for he has no regrets over being sent to Atlanta—but just to show that there still is winning ball left in that great left arm. The Crackers went out and gave him a two-run lead before he had pitched a ball and ended three more in the sixth and, although he had a stormy time of it in the sixth inning, that was the only inning in which he did not hold the Travelers just as he had held off other teams in the years of his greatest effectiveness as a Traveler. In the sixth the Travelers got four hits off their veteran ex-attacker and in the other half they got only four other hits and threatened seriously only in the ninth in which they scored.

Sensational Control.
With the same sensational control that carried him through to many notable victories for the Travelers in years gone by he kept the ball around the corners, high or low, inside or outside, just where he wanted it. He had six assists and three put outs.

Crackers Start.
The only base on balls that was given during the entire game started the Crackers off in the first inning. With Frankie Zollner out because of difficulties with an umpire, Max West had the lead-off position. When he went to bat to start the game Turpin gave him a base on balls. Gilbert hit the ball on the ground to center field and Max went to third base, sliding in and getting the decision although Charlie Gooch still insists that he tagged him before he reached the base. Blair made a nice play to get Poole with West holding third. Gooch threw out Cullop but Max scored on the out. Gilbert had advanced to third on the two outs and got away with a daring steal of the plate, giving the Crackers a two-run lead.

The Cracker lead stood at two runs until the sixth. With one out Poole doubled to left. Cullop popped to Cronin for the second out. After Johnson had missed the third strike on Kihl, Billy drew a single through the box but Poole was held at third. Jones singled to center and Poole scored and when Niehoff singled to right Rhee scored.

Double Steal.
With Jones on third and Niehoff on first a double play was made and although Dickey tagged Jones on the line umpire Johnson declared that Dickey had interfered with the batter by stepping onto the plate to take the pitch from Turpin and ruled that the run counted. There was considerable argument over the decision but it stood and was quite obvious that the Little Rock center had stepped up to take the ball although the batter had stepped back from the plate indicating that he did not intend to strike at the ball. When play resumed Blair threw out Angley to end the inning.

HAWK EATING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS

A Close Affair.

After leveling a tirade against the weather man for the way he had been acting for several days it is only just and proper that he should compliment him for the service he put out at the first day of the 11th Georgia state tournament.

Clouds flecked the sky all day but the rain that threatened many times failed to materialize and now the course is in top-notch shape for the beginning of match play today.

There has been much free and fancy predicting about the quality of competition promised by this state tournament. The predicting has not been in vain if we are to judge by the qualifying scores turned in Wednesday. As the first players began to tee off in the morning, Wimberly Peters, Keith Conway, Lloyd Parks and the other members of the committee gave their guesses at the top figure for qualifying. They were about agreed at 80 as a top number. Then the scores began to go down on the board and the estimate was changed a bit. Seventy-nine was then the number. Then after Calloway came with his magnificent 71, Will Gunn with his 73 and nearly a dozen others at or under the 75 shot the estimate looked too high again. And it was too high. The 75's were forced to play off.

It promises to be the most interesting state tournament in the history of the event. Matches promise to be closer than usual with the qualifying scores so close and the layout of the course such that all the vagaries of the game are found in abundance.

Isn't This a Tough Break?

With but one day of the event past, developments of interest are already numerous. Probably the most interesting is the $200 shot played by Solon Gray on the 17th hole in the morning. There was no wager involved in the play nor was the money showered into a waiting hat by ecstatic members of the gallery when Mr. Gray hit the pin with his tee shot and dropped for an ace.

The money has been waiting just 14 years for some good golfer to come along and pick up. Fourteen years ago George Adair endowed the 17th hole with $100 which was placed at compound interest to be given to the first man making a hole in one on the hole while playing in a tournament. Solon Gray, of the Capital City Country club, did the trick and he does not have to worry about his entrance fee.

Youth Gets Service.

The diehards who still maintain that golf is an old man's game should watch the starting tee at Druid Hills for a while in this state tournament.

Wednesday we found a shady seat near the starting point with the idea of watching the more experienced golfers tee off, hoping that observation might aid us in our endeavors later. The watching did us little or no good in our own qualifying but that is not the story—that story can't be told without the use of profanity.

The story is that we looked for experience and found youth predominant. These days youth and experience go hand in hand on the golf course. The entry list in the state tournament includes the names of at least a dozen youngsters under 16 years of age and the top flights find several of these names after qualifying.

Among the best of the youngsters are Berrien Moore, Veazey Rainwater, Jr., Tom Shropshire, Dan Sage, Jr., and Charlie Dannels. Not one of these boys is over 15 years of age and just above them comes Will Gunn, only 16, but one of the best in the state.

We watched Dan Sage and Tom Shropshire tee off on their first round and so did half a hundred other people. The reaction was the same all around the circle. Oh's and ah's were frequent and eloquent. Both of these youngsters have superb form and one of them is 14 while the other is 12. It is not difficult to see some of these youngsters in the national tournaments 10 years from now.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

GIANTS DOWN CARDS.
St. Louis, July 11.—Although the Cardinals scored four runs in the first inning, they were knocked out by the New York Giants, 5 to 3, this afternoon at Polo Grounds. The Giants' pitching of Bill Walker to win, 6 to 4. The East St. Louis outpour gave the last eight innings. This was the first starting game from which the Cardinals were removed after a series of 17 complete games before his string was broken.

Many Visitors At Speculator In Next Week

Tunney Lifts Tiny Adirondack Village Into Great Popularity.

BY WALTER TRUMBULL.
(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)
Speculator was just a simple Adirondack village where deer and porcupines gambled in the forest and Bill Osborne and Pats Lawrence conversed with the murmuring pines and the summer boards. Nod Newport and Bar Harbor have little on Speculator, socially or financially.

The mould of form is furnished by Gene Tunney and the glass of fashion by his visitors. Old inhabitants may be seen studying the snappy styles sectioned in mail order catalogues and some have already gone so far as to wear neckties on week days. One of the most famous guides may yet be known as White Pats Lawrence.

The visitors of the next few days are to be especially notable. A train bearing George Le Boutillier, of the Pennsylvania railroad, J. C. Parkes, of the Chemical bank, Sam Pryor, of the American Wheel company, George L. Rickard, of Madison Square Garden, and a proper escort of newspaper men will arrive on Saturday morning for Tunney's camp. The party will travel in private cars.

On Tuesday Bert Balchen will be seen studying the snappy styles sectioned in mail order catalogues and some have already gone so far as to wear neckties on week days. One of the most famous guides may yet be known as White Pats Lawrence.

Bryan Grant At Speculator Downs Sutter At Louisville

Local Net Star Continues To Advance; Jack Mooney Is Defeated.

BY HORACE C. RENEGAR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
Beat Club, Louisville, July 11.—(AP) Maurice Bayon, a big never-say-die collegian from the campus of Tulane university, New Orleans, projected himself into the southern tennis tournament today with a bang, when he eliminated Jack Mooney, one of the top ranking players, in characteristic slashing fashion.

Mooney, the cool, methodical placing expert from Atlanta, veteran of many tournaments and often winner, exchanged his well-laid volleys with Bayon to advantage in the first set, taking it six games to two. The New Orleans player was sending his return and service over with great force but his shots were missing their target, often going astray for lost points on out-of-bounds.

The second set found Mooney again in command momentarily but Bayon pulled out with the extra three sets and he fought a losing fight.

Bayon Wins at Net.
The Tulane youngster played up to the net successfully, worked the back court in easy but determined fashion and started placing his shots to such advantage that Mooney was on the run continually. The final score was 2-6, 6-1.

But while New Orleans was triumphing in this match, Atlanta came through shortly afterward when Bryan Grant, little defending champion of that city, felled Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, southern junior title holder, easy. Grant finished the match in short order, losing but one game. The count was 6-0, 6-1.

The champion's game was far more impressive than that of yesterday when he defeated Garvin Saunders, another Crescent city player.

Others left in the men's singles roundings, which enters the quarter-finals tomorrow, were Arthur Waters and Dan Murray, New Orleans; Melton Courts, Atlanta; John Heitmeier, Louisville; Donald Crum, Nashville, and Gus Ferrel, Miami.

Three five of the remaining eight in the play are of college age or under, only Heitmeier, Waters and Murray being of veteran age.

U. S. Olympic Team Leaves For Europe

Fanfare of Music and Har-bor Whistles Gives Athletes Send-Off.

BY BRIAN BELL.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
New York, July 11.—(AP) A ship load of American athletes, all sizes, weights and ages, sailed away today for the Olympic wars at Amsterdam.

Crowding all deck space of the chartered United States liner President Roosevelt, the runners, jumpers, swimmers, fencers, boxers, wrestlers and others heard several thousand of their friends exhaust them from the pier to "bring home the bacon." There were more than 400 passengers on board but only 268 will compete in Holland.

The men and women athletes were given a royal send-off. As the vessel that will be their home for six weeks moved away, proclaiming in 50-foot getting a big hand was Charley Paddock, the sprinter, whose status as a member of the team was jeopardized at the eleventh hour by the raising of a question as to whether his amateur standing had been marred by his motion picture efforts. Paddock was given a clean bill of health and he was the recipient of many enthusiastic slaps on his broad back as he boarded the President Roosevelt.

An official band was not the only one on hand. Johnny Gibson, 400-meter hurdler, had his own hand to wish him well to the last. The New Jersey boy was piped over the side by a fife and drum corps representing his home club, the Bloomfield Catholic Lyceum.

One of the 86 track and field stars getting a big hand was Charley Paddock, the sprinter, whose status as a member of the team was jeopardized at the eleventh hour by the raising of a question as to whether his amateur standing had been marred by his motion picture efforts. Paddock was given a clean bill of health and he was the recipient of many enthusiastic slaps on his broad back as he boarded the President Roosevelt.

Others left in the men's singles roundings, which enters the quarter-finals tomorrow, were Arthur Waters and Dan Murray, New Orleans; Melton Courts, Atlanta; John Heitmeier, Louisville; Donald Crum, Nashville, and Gus Ferrel, Miami.

Three five of the remaining eight in the play are of college age or under, only Heitmeier, Waters and Murray being of veteran age.

The champion's game was far more impressive than that of yesterday when he defeated Garvin Saunders, another Crescent city player.

Calloway, Charlie Black Tie for Low Medal in State Meet

71 Is Lowest Score of Day In Tourney

197 Golfers Play at Druid Hills in Attempt To Qualify for Tourney.

By WHITNER CARY.

Playing in the same brilliant manner that marked their performances in tournament play last summer, Harold Calloway, of LaGrange, and Charlie Black, of Atlanta, with scores of 71, tied for the honor of leading the field of 197 star golfers who competed in the qualifying round of the Georgia state championship Wednesday over the Druid Hills course.

Close behind these two star linksmen came Kayton Smith, the crack Savannah player, whose 72 almost overhauled the leaders. Back of Smith tied at 73 are Gate City players, Will Gunn and L. R. Hunter, and Jennings Gordon, of Rome, who had a 75. The championship flight is then strung out to include all those making 77 and two who shot 78. It was this last figure that was the border line and which necessitated a play-off between six players to fill the two vacancies. In the play-off P. G. Hannahan and Johnny Green, both of this city, were the successful candidates. Hannahan gained his place almost at the rise of the barrier, taking the first hole with a four. Green was pressed until the fourth when he entered the charmed circle of 16 who Thursday morning will begin match play for the untested crown of Watts Gunn.

Calloway, whose brilliant short game is especially effective over the Druid Hills course, played almost flawless golf throughout the 18 holes of his qualifying round. On the ninth hole it looked for a time as if he would yield a few strokes to par when he brassy found the woods to the right. Taking an iron he sent the ball fully 150 yards to within eight inches of the cup. This was his greatest shot of the round. His driving and iron play left little for his putter and he used but 31 putts for the 18-hole jaunt. On the last 13 holes he was three under par.

Black Brilliant.
Charlie Black, the same Charlie who won the city championship last year and who made such a good showing in the Georgia state at Savannah last July, was on his game in most brilliant fashion. He was out in a sparkling 35 and although he slipped a trifle on 11 and 12 he played the remaining six holes in par. He went one over on number 16, but made up for this misdeed by getting a birdie two on the short 17th. All department of his splendid game were hitting on all cylinders. From the looks of things in the qualifying round Charlie Black and Calloway are going to be exceedingly tough customers to beat in the present tournament.

Like all qualifying rounds, the one Wednesday saw many good golfers fall by the wayside and many a candidate for title honors go slipping down into lower flights.

Olivers Fall.
All the Olivers, Max, Billy and John, fell by the wayside. John and Max came close, turning in a brace of 76s, while Billy had to be content with an 81.

Will Gunn, brother unto Watts, gave plenty of good reason by his great performance in carding a 73 that the title may still rest within the confines of the Gunn household. Had he not missed a three-foot putt and one of less than a foot he would have made it a three-cornered tie for qualifying honors.

Kayton Smith, the old reliable war horse from Savannah, showed by his neat 72 that Atlanta and LaGrange golfers are not going to have the tournament all to themselves. Smith was extremely good throughout his 18 holes. The same goes for L. R. Hunter, present Junior champion, of Commerce, whose 73 put him right among the leaders.

One of the unfortunate incidents of the qualifying round was the disqualification of Harrie Ansley, of this city. Harrie put his tee shot in a bunker, and after attempting to play out buried his ball so deep that

Youthful Society and Its Guests Occupy Center of Social Stage

Youthful society, recently returned from the schools and colleges throughout the country to spend their vacation days at home, continues to occupy the center of the stage, socially speaking. The long summer days are filled with parties galore, lovely at fresco events, swimming parties, picnics and other affairs that attract one out-of-door. Contributing added interest and gaiety to the series of informal events is the presence of a bevy of attractive young visitors who are guests of their schoolmates, and around whom social attention revolves.

Miss Frances McKenzie is entertaining at the handsome Peachtree street home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Speer, two of her schoolmates, lovely sub-debs of society, Miss Edith Menzies, of Detroit, Mich., and Miss Helen Garrett, of Washington, D. C. She will keep open house in their honor this evening and several hundred members of the college set will call.

Miss Frances Claggett is another belle from the national capital who is being widely feted. She is the guest of Miss Betty Brown, and the two affairs featuring the calendar and planned in her honor are Miss Edith McCoy's luncheon and Miss Elizabeth Everett's theater party.

A South Carolina visitor who will be honored today is Miss Christine Dubose, of Sumter, Miss Dossia Hunnicutt entertaining at a theater party.

Assembling a large number of the city's club women will be Mrs. G. H. Brandon's garden party at her home on Peachtree circle.

Three of the city's popular social clubs, the Capital City, the Druid Hills Golf club and the Piedmont Driving club, will open their doors this evening to the members who assemble each week on the "maid's night off" for dinner on the attractive open-air terraces. The Capital City club members are dancing with dining each Thursday evening, the affair taking place whenever the weather is seasonable on the attractive flower-bordered roof garden.

Miss Hunter Weds Wallis D. Wilson.

Woodville, Ga., July 11.—A wedding of interest was that of Miss Myrtle Hunter to Wallis D. Wilson, of Miami, Fla., which took place Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hunter.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John D. Moll, of Athens, in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom and a circle of close friends.

Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. James R. Turner, of Comer, cousin of the bride. Miss Elizabeth Ann Bell, of Cedar Bluff, Ala., sang "O Promise Me."

The bride wore a charming model of navy blue georgette with tan accessories. Her corsage boasted white lilies of the valley and orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony side.

Miss Carleton Weds Rev. Macdonald At Church Ceremony

Greensboro, Ga., July 11.—(Special.) The marriage of Miss Annette Carleton, of Union Point, to Rev. Malcolm Alexander Macdonald was solemnized at the Methodist church, Rev. F. D. Cantrell performing the ceremony.

The church was decorated in green and white with white candles and was most artistic and beautiful.

Miss Carleton entered with her father, William Carleton, who gave her in marriage. Jessie Lou Carleton was flower girl, and Robert Thompson, Jr., was ringbearer.

The bridesmaids included Misses Elizabeth Thornton, Union Point; Edith Picher, Warrenton; Louise Morton, Athens; Mildred Morton, Greenville, S. C. Their gowns were in contrasting pastel shades and their bouquets were of pastel garden flowers.

The groomsmen were Thomas Francis Wallace, Charlotte, N. C.; Angus Guy McInnes, Eugene Thompson Wilson, Asheville, N. C.; James Macdonald Richards, Davidson, N. C.; and Dr. Lee Postwick, Union Point; Harold Lamb Bryan, Union Point.

The bride, an exquisite type of brunette, was dressed in white tulle, made bouffant and tight waist, with long veil of tulle, caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was bride's roses and valley lilies.

The groom is in charge of the Presbyterian church at Union Point and is much beloved there, as elsewhere where he is known.

The music was in charge of Miss Virginia Durham, of Woodville, and Miss Martha Johnston, Agnes Scott graduate in music, sang several selections before the ceremony. The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Parks Carleton was the scene of a brilliant gathering at a reception following the marriage and was tastefully and gaily decorated with garden flowers in variety.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE START FOR HOME

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who for defense is well prepared
Has few occasions to be scared.

—Jimmy Skunk.

Little Mrs. Peter realized how very dangerous it was for Whitey, her all-white little son, to be out in the great world. "It is hard enough, my dear," said she, "to keep out of sight with a regular rabbit coat. I don't know of anybody who has to be more constantly watchful than does a rabbit. But for you to be out in the great world with this white coat is impossible. You just can't live long, that's all. It will be all right in winter. Then you will have the advantage of the rest of us. But until the snow comes, the place for you is in the dear old briar-patch. Now, follow me, my dear, and we'll start back."

"But I don't want to go home," whined Whitey. "I've just got out in the great world and I want to see it."

Little Mrs. Peter looked at Whitey very long and hard. "Do you want to see it as a rabbit, or you want to see it as part of a fox or a hawk or an owl?" she demanded. "You are exactly what would happen. It is a wonder to me that you have not been caught already. Now, follow me."

Right down in his heart, Whitey was only too glad to follow mother. He had a feeling that no matter what happened, she would see that no harm came to him. So he meekly followed.

Little Mrs. Peter led the way along the old cowpath, and if Whitey had been taking notice, he would have discovered that she tried to be always within a jump or two of a bush or bramble. If there was any distance between these safety points, she would first sit up to look and listen. Then she would give a signal and they would run as fast as their legs could take them to the next safety point.

Finally, they reached the edge of the old pasture nearest to the dear old briar-patch. There they stopped. You see, it was getting toward morning. It was growing lighter every minute.

"We shall have to spend the day here," said Mrs. Peter, in the most decided manner. "It won't be safe until night to try to get across to the dear old briar-patch. Look, there is Whitey! the marsh hawk now! And there is his cousin, Redtail, the hawk, away up in the sky, circling around and around. One of them would have one of us before we were halfway there."

So they remained where they were and took a long nap. It was white they were taking a nap that Jimmy Skunk happened along. Jimmy usually pays very little attention to people about him. But he caught sight of Whitey in there and that white coat might be a member of his own family. So Jimmy started to work his way into that bramble-tangle. Little Mrs. Peter was awake in an instant and she woke Whitey. "Together they moved a little farther into the bramble-tangle," said Jimmy Skunk. "I beg your pardon, Mrs. Peter. All the time he was staring very hard at Whitey. 'Is this one of your children?' he inquired."

"Yes," replied little Mrs. Peter. Jimmy shook his head.

"Too bad, too bad," said he. "I don't see how he is going to come to any good end. Now, in my family, a white coat makes little difference. We each of us carry a little scent-gun and that is sufficient. But how a white rabbit can expect to live long is beyond me."

You can guess how uncomfortable this made Whitey feel.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

SYNOPSIS. The young Elizabeth is the adored daughter of Tim and Elizabeth Darcy. When she is four years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. At twelve Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the home of her aunt Dolly in London. Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece, much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whitley. After the death of her parents Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring Mark Lennox, a young playwright, to one of their performances. Shortly after the end of the war Mrs. Whitley dies suddenly in Brighton and Elizabeth laments to her consternation that her aunt had frittered away the money left her by her husband and had also disposed of some of Stephen's inheritance as well. Afraid to face Stephen after this revelation Elizabeth decides to go to Mark Lennox in London and ask him to get her a job on the stage. He promises her a part in his new play, and gets her a room in the same house. Stephen comes to see Mark and is furious at finding Elizabeth in his rooms.

INSTALLMENT X. BLUFF.

In a few words Stephen told Mark how matters stood, making, however, no mention of the money of which he had been defrauded, and Mark forgot his own disappointment in his real distress for his friend.

Then came Elizabeth, full of her own affairs. "I've taken the room," she said, "and Miss Colet seems quite a nice person." She spoke condescendingly. Miss Colet was middle-aged, stout and dowdily dressed. Then her face fell at sight of Stephen. "I thought you had gone," she said.

Stephen turned to the door. "So I have," he said, "sitting the action to the word."

"Good old Stephen," said Mark. "One of the very best, only wants knowing, getting through the crust." "He's all crust!" said Elizabeth. "I expect there are others who could tell a different story," said the dramatist. "There was no man better liked in the regiment by men or officers."

"Well, he's not liked by girls," said Elizabeth, "and I think he hates them." "Rather an eccentric pose for such a fine handsome chap!"

"O, if you admire iced marbles, makes one think of statues and things. I can't say I see much in his looks."

"He seems to retort in kind," returned Mark unthinkingly.

"What do you mean? Does he think me ugly?"

"O, no, only he doesn't like your nose. He says it turns up or something."

Elizabeth was unreasonably annoyed. "He can look after his own nose and leave mine alone," she said. "I'm sure I don't want to look like one of the old Roman emperors going about with an ax and smiting their enemies."

Meanwhile Stephen, tired out, had sought his own bed, but he was too worried to sleep. All night through he was haunted by a row of figures that would never come right, and by Elizabeth's mocking smile. Those blue defiant eyes followed him even into his brief broken dreams. It was curious, but he did not feel so particularly angry with her now, but then he never did out of her presence; it was when they met that the sparks began to fly. They certainly had rubbed each other up the wrong way from the very beginning of things. But now he suddenly saw her as a gallant little ship, all sail set, putting out on the great stormy sea of life, without a compass, a captain, or a chart; ignorant of tempests or of shoals, unskilled in even the rudiments of navigation. What would come of the venture?

Would she ride safely into harbor, this light cockle shell, or would she be swamped as so many were swamped, with a bubble upon the waters to mark her passing?

"Anyway, I suppose the rest of my life will be spent digging her out of some mess or other," he thought, tossing from side to side.

Once suitably disposed of, Mark dismissed Elizabeth from his mind. He had much more important things to think about than girls, however young and pretty. Besides, the world was full of them; it was not full of rich men prepared to back one's play. He had to meet Mr. Keene at luncheon and instead of informing him he had secured another backer he would have to own all such hopes had met with disappointment; whereupon Keene would at once withdraw the support he had offered, and the young dramatist's last state would be worse than the first.

"And there we'll all be, Stephen, the young Elizabeth, and myself, in the soup together!" he thought gloomily. Keene was such a very big fish, practically hooked, and now with one wriggle he would swim away, leaving Mark's pool quite devoid of fishes big or little. "And yet in our line the unexpected is always happening," he mused. "A failure today; tomorrow the great success. O, goddess of fortune, smile! Turn Fortune, turn thy wheel!"

What was the best line to take with that pirate of commerce, Keene?

"Bluff! It's the only thing," he thought rather desperately. "And the stake is worth it. After all the poor devil with nothing in their hands—or up their sleeves—must bluff or be squeezed out. It's the man with four aces who can stand pat." He slackened his pace. "Won't do to be too punctilious, seem too eager," he thought, "I've got to be the man conferring the favor, not seeking one." Still he had led Keene to believe there was another rich backer eager to take up half, and facts were facts, he would have to own that the other fellow was not. He stopped to contemplate himself gloomily in a shop window. "Thank goodness I've got 'em all on!" he thought, looking at the very smart figure he presented. He went into a flower shop and laid his last half crown on the counter. "Buttonhole," he said rather curtly, for he grudgingly throwing money away on such folly. His eyes roamed indifferently round the shop and fell on a small pot of white heather. "It would like a bunch of that," he said, and stuck it into his buttonhole. "A fool and his money are soon parted," he thought wryly. "Dash it, I look like a bridegroom!"

Outside the shop was a ladder; solemnly Mark walked under it wishing very hard. Later a black cat sauntered itself outside a restaurant and curled itself round its legs. "Bless you!" said Mark and he hurried three times to it. Surely here was a happy augury for "The Broken Butterfly!" Five minutes later as he dawdled through the park a butterfly was blown across his face, and he caught one of its wings was broken. Tenderly he placed it on a flower, his spirits rising, and hoped fate would smile on him to it. He was astonished to see a very smart, good looking young man take off his hat to a flower. "It's all right now," thought Mark excitedly. "The gods of chance can't let me down after that!" And he spent ten minutes of Mr. Keene's invaluable time helping a small boy to sail a boat, and quite as interested as the small boy. In fact he tore himself away with reluctance. Bluff was a good game to play at times, but it was dangerous to overdo it.

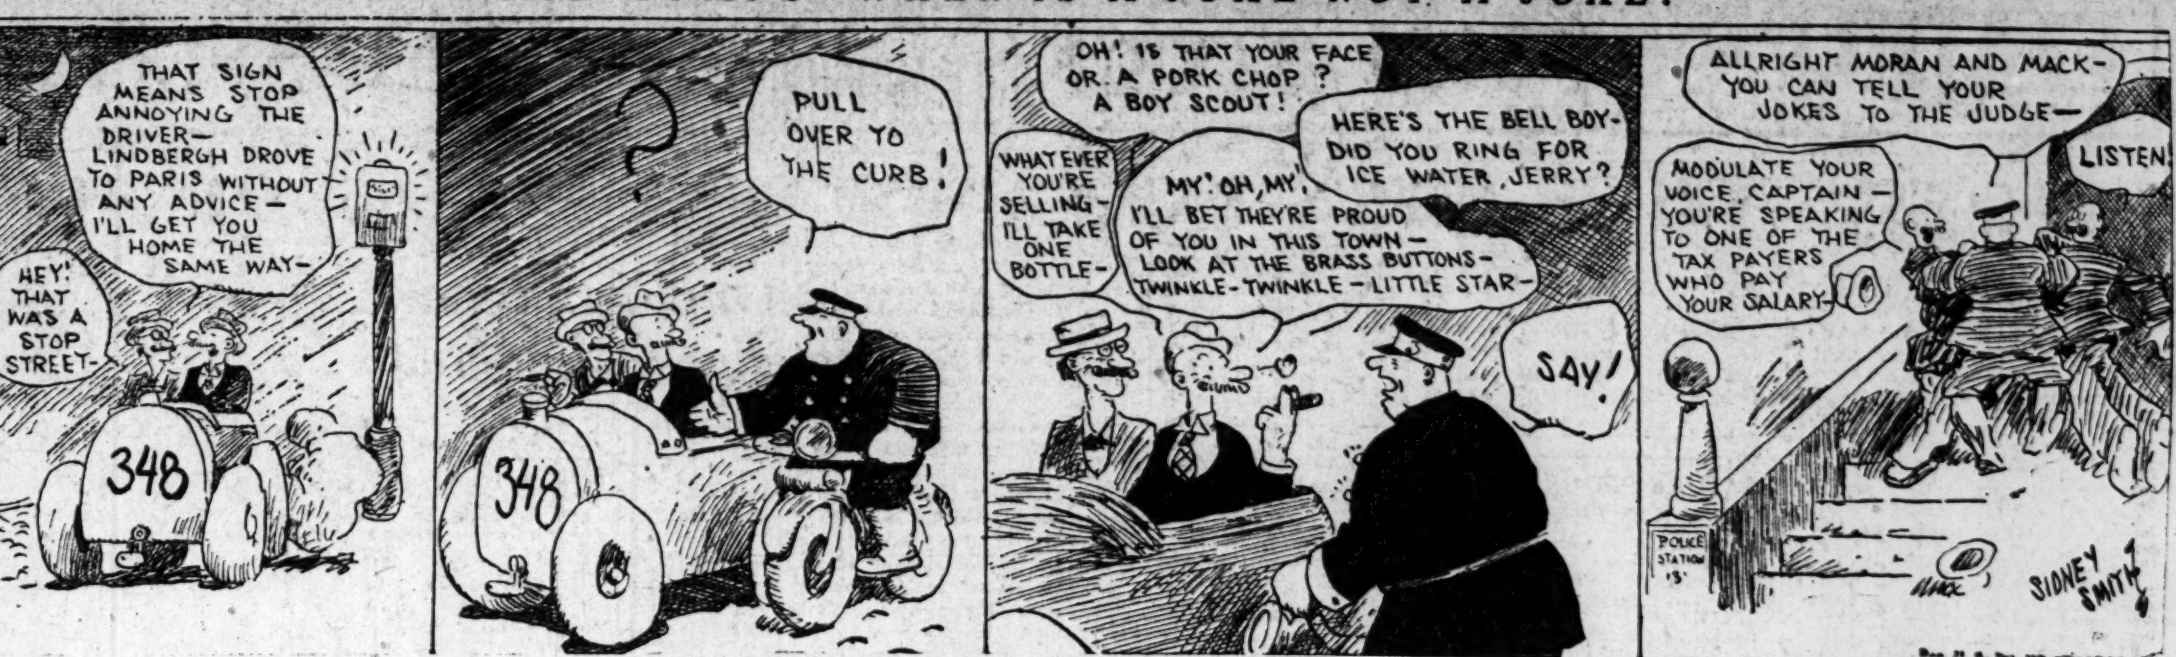

Mr. Keene, unaccustomed to being kept waiting, was growing impatient. Confound it, here was he ready to cash up for the fellow's play, and the fellow did not seem in any hurry about it. Was it that he did not care whether he backed it or not? What of the rich friend, the man who was to come in on the other half? Did the chap want to come in, on the whole; sense a bargain? That was why Lennox was late; he was ashamed to let him know he had done him out of the transaction. Now that it seemed likely to slip through his fingers, Mr. Keene, who had money to burn, got an exaggerated idea of the play and the kudos that would accrue to its backer and part owner. That cabaret scene and that very pretty girl were absolutely the goods. And the very pretty girl not only willing but eager to be taken about by the "big noise" of the production. He must have it and he would; after all, a half share had been practically promised him. If only he had signed up there and then for the whole show!

Was it too late to begin to live at fifty? He was going to find out. His own origin had been deplorable, his start in life the lowest possible, but all that was over and done. Via theatrical doors he would get in a good and lively set, possibly into society itself. Stranger things had happened. He would marry some young and pretty girl of this world, and he could not help think of Elizabeth's very gay blue eyes. He had no notion to be the fast man about town; he wanted to settle down with a radiant young wife, who would be gay, companionable, and a lady. Some pretty hardup young creature.

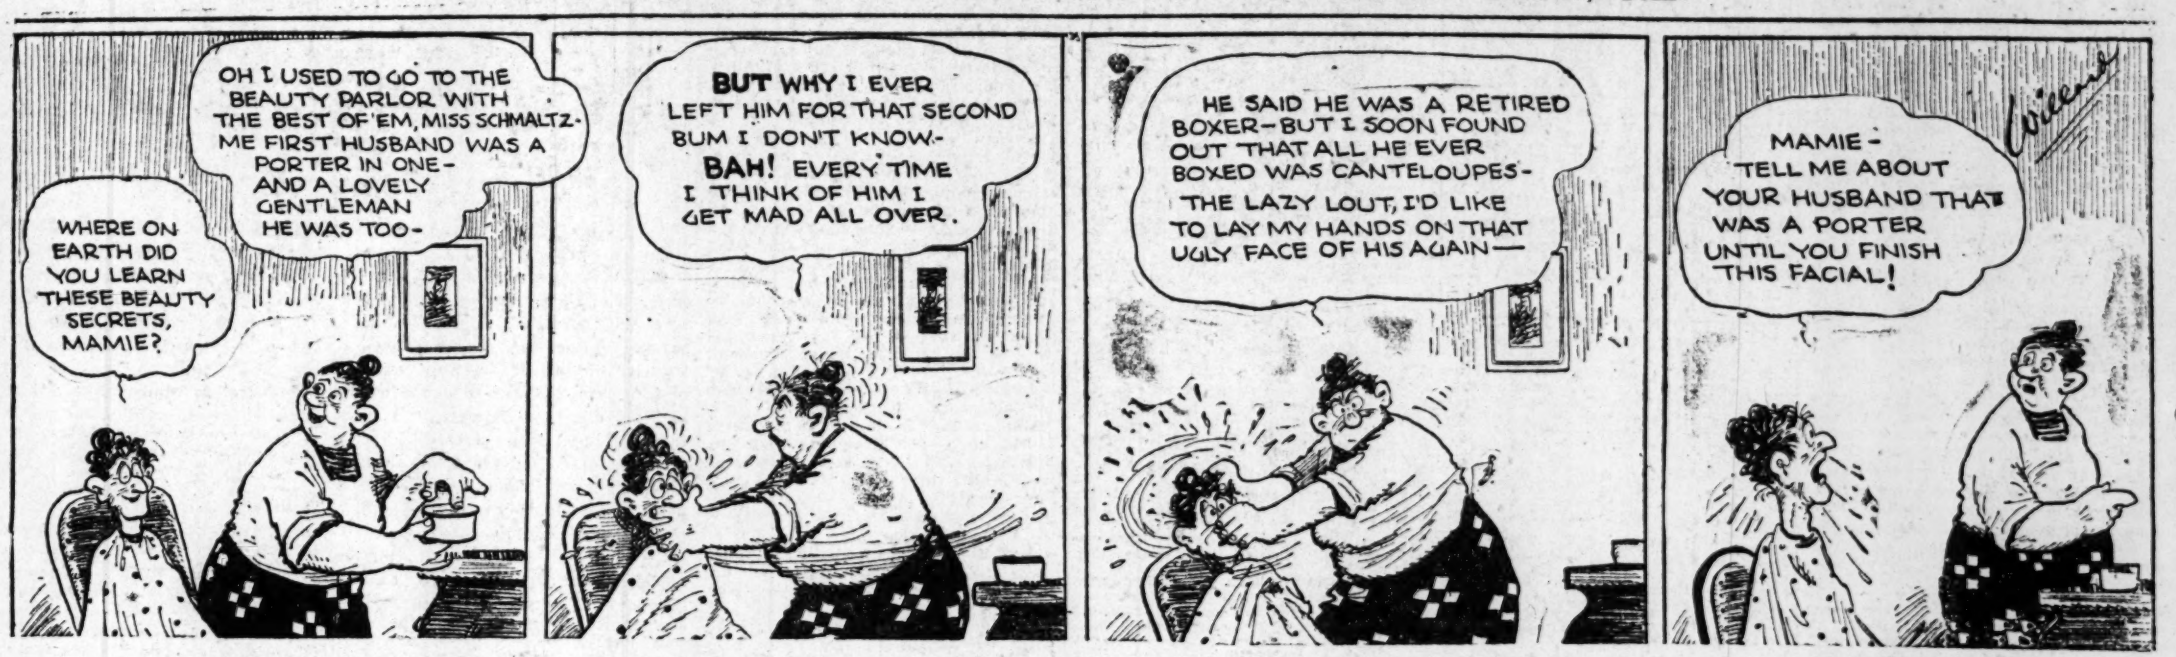

Was Miss Darcy hard up? From his glimpse of her he doubted it. She would amuse herself on the stage for awhile, possibly become a sensation, marry some rich young man, and pass out of his life. He had only half the purchase money; the other would be able to throw youth into the scale. Maddening to think he might have lost his chance of the play and the type of wife he had in his mind's eye.

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Cotton prices advanced nearly 2¢ a bale on unfavorable features in the weather news and a continuation of buying which developed on the rally yesterday. After selling up to 22.07 early, October broke to 21.82, but advanced to 22.24 in late trading and closed at 22.24, compared with 21.91 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed very steady, at net advances of 3¢ to 39¢ points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 11 to 16 points on the relatively firm tone of Liverpool and reports of further rains in eastern and central stations of the belt. The initial demand was supplied by realizing, and selling became more active after publication of the weekly report of the weather bureau which was evidently considered more favorable than anticipated.

Market Turns Weak. For a time the market showed considerable weakness under liquidation and local selling, July ending off to 21.50 and December to 21.85 or about 5 to 12 points below yesterday's closing quotations and 20 to 25 points from the opening prices. Demand picked up at the decline, however, and prices reached the best levels of the day in late trading on covering or rebuying by earlier sellers, while there also seemed to be large demand from brokers with Wall Street connections, and through houses with European trade connections.

SHOWERS PREDICTED.

Prospects for additional showers in the eastern belt, and the detailed weather reports showing heavy rainfall in eastern belt districts, were factors in the afternoon advance. Buying may have been influenced, also, by reports that one of the trade authorities estimated consumption of cotton in this country for the week ending July 11 at 520,000 bales, and continued reports of heavy rain in the south.

COTTON SCORES

ADVANCE OF 82.

New Orleans, July 11.—(AP)—Cotton prices scored a net advance of 82¢ a bale in active trading today despite several influences tending to lower values. Trade and speculative buying induced by indications of unfavorable weather in the belt carried October contracts up from 21.65 to 21.75, and delivery closed at 21.67, or 34 points net higher, with the general market very steady at net advances of 34 to 40 points.

Liverpool cables were due to nine penny points better than due, and the market opened firm in response. First trade showed gains of 12 to 17 points, but the failure of New York to respond fully to the favorable English market broke liquidation and prices eased off 10 to 15 points. Toward the end of the first hour, however, the market recovered most of this loss under speculative buying which developed on all sides.

When the weekly weather and crop summary was issued showing that the crop had made fair progress during the past week the market turned easy under liquidation by satisfied loans, and October eased off to 21.25 and December 21.20, or 20 to 25 points under the early highs and 8 points below the previous close.

The influence of the weekly statement was offset, however, by the detailed weather report, which showed much rain in the eastern belt where dry weather is needed and an official forecast for showers in that section. The bullish influences brought out a good speculative demand and there was also evidence of trading buying. Before the demand was supplied October had recovered to 21.72 and December to 21.68, or 47 to 48 points up from the lows.

There was a reaction of 4 to 5 points at the end on realizing, and October closed at 21.67 and December 21.64, or 34 to 40 points up. Farm Paper Editor Hits
Cry for Relief by Farmers

Detroit, July 11.—(AP)—William Johnson, editor of Farm Life, believes that tears of farmers for relief are of the crocodile variety, based more on a desire for added luxuries than on economic necessities.

Addressing the convention of world advertisers here last night, Mr. Johnson said real economic distress existed in the world where there is a marked absence of "croaking" for federal aid. "Farming may produce no millionaires," he said, "but it has no breadwinners. No top houses. They simply wretches living on charitable nickels and dimes."

"Agriculture has been deeply plectored a scene of market hopelessness. As a matter of fact the modern farm today would be an agriculture heaven to granddaddy. Contrast the bare drudgery of 20 years ago with the modern sort, lighted and brightened by power, machinery, radios, automobiles and other things."

"Probably the next generation will be hard up for the price of airplanes," the disconcerted of the farmer, Johnson said, is the ferment of progress working in their minds. They are out for incomes large enough to pay for the standard of living they have tasted in towns and cities since automobiles and hard roads took them there, he said.

U.S. Financing of Foreign Loans Breaks All Records

Washington, July 11.—(United Press)—American financiers broke all records for financing foreign private loans in the first half of 1927. During June of this year, American financiers, far surpassing previous records, financed foreign private loans to the amount of $274,000,000.

The total amount of foreign capital securities handled by American underwriters during the first half of 1927, according to the American Finance Association, was $794,277,000, compared with $794,277,000 underwritten during the first half of 1926.

Another record for American foreign financing was broken in the second quarter of this year, when American underwriters handled $643,774,000 of foreign securities, exceeding the $589,310,000 total amount of underwritten during the previous record of the October-December quarter of 1915, in which $584,458,000 of securities was sold, including the $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan.

The heavy gain in par value of foreign capital securities publicly admitted that while not "breakers" in 1928, can be seen by a comparison of the quarter's $643,774,000 with the $589,310,000 of the previous high month for German borrowings.

European for $282,300,000; Canada with $139,200,000; the Far East third with $120,000,000 while Latin America and American territories and possessions received $79,700,000 and $30,800,000, respectively.

In addition to breaking previous records for total foreign underwriting, the second quarter of 1928 set a record by par value of German offerings, which was greater than any similar period since the institution of the Dawes plan in 1924, amounting to over $152,300,000, as compared with $142,000,000 in the second quarter of 1925, the previous high month for German borrowings.

Well-informed Wall Street believes that other federal reserve banks will follow Chicago until there is continued liquidation in the money market; also that the higher redemptive rate will be followed as was the case today by higher rates for money in the open market, especially on the part of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Returned active trading today in the cotton market partly reflected conditions in the money market. A broker requires margin on trades in cotton just as in stocks, but trades in cotton are merely "options" for future delivery and require no borrowing by brokers from banks. Hence the selling by active traders from stocks to cotton. For weeks cotton has been advancing rapidly on the crop outlook.

Traders in the stock market have had some very poor advice this week from very high sources here in Wall Street and at Washington. Time and again the big outside public plunging in the stock market following its leaders has been told by prominent bankers and by high officials in the administration at Washington that there was no occasion to require margin on trades in cotton.

In view of the frequently repeated advice of the foregoing character, the National City Bank here has a record worth recalling. It was at the end of last March, or after the first month of the wildest bull stock market ever witnessed in this or any other country that the National City Bank by its regular monthly letter on the existing situation and outlook called attention to the selling position of the member banks, adding: "If expansion is to go on in the stock market the supporting credits in the last analysis can only come from one or more of three sources—gold imports, funds released from business or expansion of federal reserve credit."

On a regular dividend basis, Mr. Williams said, the Mortgage Guarantee Company of America, which makes loans on improved real estate in the south and markets the bonds secured by these mortgages all over the country, has had rapid growth. With a view to rendering complete and efficient service, several new departments recently have been added.

Basil Stockbridge, vice president, has been added to the executive committee of the board, which is composed of Joseph A. McCord, chairman of the board; Peter F. Clarke, treasurer; Mr. Williams and Mr. Stockbridge.

The showing made by the company for the six months ending June 30 was the most gratifying in its history, and that while the preferred dividend represented the eighth consecutive distribution on that class of stock, the directors also now feel justified in placing the common stock of the company on a regular dividend basis, Mr. Williams said. Tobacco Firms

Split Stock

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Reports to contemplate stock splits by two of the largest tobacco companies engaged interest in the financial district today.

Directors of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company were understood to be considering a four-for-one split of common and "B" common stocks $25 par, and a change to no par, while directors of American Tobacco company were said to be planning a two-for-one split.

The outstanding common and "B" common of Reynolds Tobacco has par value of $10,000,000 embracing 400,000 shares of common and 3,000,000 shares of "B." There is no preferred stock or funded debt. Should the distribution develop, the new shares probably will receive annual dividends of $1.50 a share, split to $0.375 on the present shares which now pay $3. An extra dividend of $1.50 was paid in 1927, when record net profits of $29,080,065 were reported.

Reynolds Tobacco inaugurated the cigarette price cut several months ago, but officials report a record business for the half year, with net profits at a new peak.

American Tobacco has outstanding $40,242,400 of common stock and $57,401,800 of "B" common. Both $25 par. The combined common and "B" common total 1,552,884 shares. The present annual dividend rate is $3 a share. It is expected if the split occurs the par value will be reduced to $25.

Everybody's Business

Edwin R. Dibley, New York store executive, speaking before the International Advertising Association convention at Detroit this week, said: "Price is subordinate to style, color and design."

Increasing prosperity since the war has naturally brought with it a certain freedom in buying. Today many people demand service and effect, irrespective of price.

Thomas A. Edison, years ago, in putting one of his manufacturing articles on the market in competition with others, increased the price 20 per cent more than the price quoted by any competitor, although the article cost him less to make. Shrewdly he remarked at the time that as people compared the value of the article with the price, they would find that his was better than those of his competitors.

See the other side of the picture—the new chain store movement. One company, with 17,500 stores scattered throughout the country, did a business last year of $750,000,000. Another, with 1,281 stores, did a business of $272,000,000. Still another, with 3,765 stores, did $101,000,000 worth of business. There are many others.

More crude oil continues to flow out of the earth than is needed, and crude oil prices continue on a low basis. Some effort has been made lately in the Pennsylvania fields to raise the price of crude oil, while oil production remains at a high level. When daily demand for oil catches up to daily production, the long delayed improvement in the oil business will show itself.

At this time of the year New York business men are supposed to be away on vacation. Some are, but many are not. Among those who continue to work in the sizzling heat and weather are such leaders as Walter I. Chrysler, Adolph Zukor, W. C. Durant, Anthony H. G. Fokker, Owen D. Young, James G. Harbord, H. B.

Transfer Agent: THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK. CAPITALIZATION: Authorized 1,000,000 shares. Outstanding 1,000,000 shares. Common Stock 1,000,000 shares. Dividends exempt from the present normal Federal Income Tax.

Cannon Mills Company has acquired, through consolidation, all the assets of Cannon Manufacturing Company and eight other predecessor companies constituting a thoroughly well established and integrated group engaged in the manufacture of cotton towels, yarns, tire fabrics, sheetings, rayon fabrics, madras, armor cloth, etc. Towels comprise about 60 to 70 per cent of annual sales. The company manufactures over 600,000 towels per day, its output constituting over 50 per cent of the cotton towels produced in the United States.

The properties owned by Cannon Mills Company embrace modern and extensive plants equipped with a total of about 433,000 ring producing spindles and 9,848 looms, and comprise a completely integrated group of mills splendidly equipped with facilities for the manufacture of the various finished products and also the yarns and other materials entering into the finished products. Cannon Mills Company has also acquired more than 95 per cent of the capital stock of Cannon Mills, Inc., which is engaged exclusively in sales activities and has for many years sold the entire output of the predecessor companies as well as the products of a number of other companies.

The consolidated net income of the predecessor companies and Cannon Mills, Inc. (on the basis of complete acquisition of the Common Stock of Cannon Mills, Inc.), has been as follows for the past six calendar years: 1922, $4,094,547; 1923, $3,562,552; 1924, $2,542,995; 1925, $3,621,959; 1926, $4,540,641; 1927, $3,963,912. In spite of lower prices which have prevailed during the current year, net income for the five months ended May 31, 1928, is estimated at about $1,325,000. A new towel mill, equipped with 53,000 spindles and 1,250 looms, has recently been completed and should substantially increase the earning power of the enterprise.

It is intended that the company inaugurate the payment of dividends on the Common Stock at the rate of $2.80 per share per annum, payable in equal quarterly installments on January 1, April 1, July 1 and October 1. On the basis of a pro forma consolidated balance sheet of Cannon Mills Company and Cannon Mills, Inc. (assuming complete acquisition of the Common Stock of Cannon Mills, Inc.), as of December 31, 1927, and adjusted to allow for retirement of preferred stock outstanding at that date, current assets amount to $19,686,652, equivalent to more than 74 times current liabilities, and the net current assets amount to $17,082,699. Current assets include $8,739,261 of cash and readily marketable securities, and $5,689,623 of receivables, net of reserve. Based on present quotations for the readily marketable securities, the net current assets amount to over $18,500,000, equivalent to $42 per spindle and over $18 per share of Common Stock.

Plant, property, machinery, etc., is carried on the pro forma balance sheet at $13,038,888, equivalent to about $30 per spindle, which is substantially below the real value of these assets. The Company has just completed a 53,000 spindle mill (exclusive of bleaching equipment) at a cost of approximately $3,000,000, or about $56 per spindle. Application will be made to list the Common Stock of Cannon Mills Company on the New York Stock Exchange.

We offer this stock, if, as and when issued to and received by us. Legal matters in connection with the formation of Cannon Mills Company and the issuance and sale of this stock will be passed upon by Messrs. Brooks, Barker, Smith & Wharton, of Greensboro, N. C., and Messrs. Shearman & Sterling, of New York City. It is expected that delivery in the first instance will be made on or about July 20, 1928, in the form of temporary stock certificates.

COTTON REPORT
EXPANDED BY U.S.

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—The department of agriculture announced today that it had received a number of inquiries for further information on the subject of the stand of cotton, which was noted in the comments of its crop report of July 9 to have been reported 6 per cent below last year.

The department has replied to these inquiries as follows: "For the last five years the crop report has been obtained from its correspondents on the first of July information concerning the stand of cotton, the question asked being worded as follows: 'What is the per cent of a full or perfect stand this season? (Full 100 per cent equal a perfect stand.)' The averages of the returns from correspondents to this question are as follows: 1924, 80.0; 1925, 83.8; 1926, 81.8; 1927, 84.8; 1928, 79.8. An identical inquiry was made on August 1, 1926, and 1927. The averages of the returns for August 1 were, 1926, 83.1; 1927, 83.8. Apparently the stand seemed to reporters to have improved during July 1928, and to have declined during August 1928, to the effect of differences in stand."

The resignation of Count Volpi, Italy's able finance minister, has started many rumors about the serious economic and financial situation there. In recent months, business conditions have not been improving in the land of Mussolini, but under the iron dictatorship of the premier little has leaked out. No leader in Europe has a more difficult task than Mussolini in his attempt to rehabilitate Italy. Never a self-supporting nation, its imports have always been above its exports, with few natural resources to help, not a pound of coal in the land to use for manufacturing; a poor quality of soil; and a prolific population.

Money has flowed into Italy in large amounts during the last few years, since Mussolini took charge and this has helped greatly to tide over the reconstruction period going on there. But recently many large banks have failed, a huge volume of foreign bills has been protested, crops have not been particularly good and industry has slowed down. Italy will be watching the next few months.

The selection of John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee and the drop of General Motors common stock by more than 8 points on the same day, is interesting. General Motors has 17,500,000 shares of common stock outstanding. The drop of yesterday alone wiped out over $150,000,000 of market value in the stock.

Possibly the extreme decline in the stock, as well as in many others, can be more accurately traced to a stiffening of call money rates and the rise in interest rates for the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. News reports tell of the departure yesterday for Europe of Andrew D. Mellon and J. Pierpont Morgan. These two well-known financiers will have plenty of time to talk over matters of mutual interest for they are going on the same ship. If a stenographic report of the conversation were revealed perhaps we would find some interesting hints as to the state of the Italian finances today among other subjects.

The General Contract Purchase corporation and its associated companies were organized by the General Electric company in 1921 and have extended a national service to General Electric distributors, dealers and to those manufacturers whose product contains General Electric apparatus.

Arthur J. Morris will be chairman of the board of directors and Percy M. Hall chairman of the executive committee. E. W. Keith's Georgia.
 Joe and Jane McKenna, a team of young and clever comedians and dancers, are one of the big features of Keith's Georgia theater and are creating plenty of laughs for the patrons. Jane has an eccentric manner, an infectious smile and a burlesque adagio dance that is one of the best bits of comedy ever seen in the city. Florence Vidor, starring in the "Magnificent Flirt," is at her best in this sophisticated comedy of life in far Paris.

Rialto.
 "Lady Be Good," the uproariously funny and entertaining stage vehicle has been made into a picture and according to the current opinion of audiences at the Rialto, where it is playing, the film story has surpassed even the original show. Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall are starred. On the big-time supporting bill of vaudeville are featured Ted Dwyer, famous dancing man of Broadway; Leo Carillo, dialect artist, and Henry B. Walthall, dramatic star in "Retribution."

Empire.
 A deep, penetrating drama of immigration in New York's lower East Side struggling to become American citizens, their children real Americans, but the parents still living in the old world, such is the theme of Universal's special, "We Americans," the attraction of the week.

WAR THREATENED AS TAXIS REDUCE FARE TO 10 CENTS

Washington, July 11.—(United News.)—A threatened "war" between the Independent Taxicab Owners' association and the public service commission is expected to reach a crisis Thursday morning when taxi men plan to institute a 10-cent fare despite a commission ruling against it.

The low taxi rate is for carrying government workers downtown from outlying sections, but the public service commission holds this price-cutting to be unfair competition with buses and eight-cent street car fares.

The taxi men announced that at 8 a. m. Thursday they will open the low rate service without formal commission from the commission, while the commission, armed with legal opinion, to back up its contention that it has a right to regulate taxis, threatens to exercise its authority.

Hoover Finally Answers Settle's Farming Query
 Indianapolis, July 11.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, republican presidential nominee, will discuss fully his views on the farm relief question in his speech of acceptance of the nomination August 11 at Palo Alto, Calif., he informed William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, in a telegram today.

Settle had previously sent a telegram to Hoover asking the nominee to state his personal stand on the farm relief question. "It is my purpose," Hoover said in his message, "to refrain from making any public declaration regarding policies or issues until my acceptance speech, when I will deal with the subject fully."

Settle said that the farm relief question was a subject of the greatest importance to the state and that he was sure that Hoover would deal with it in a satisfactory manner.

William A. Sims, Son of Atlanta, Dies of Injuries
 Valdosta, Ga., July 11.—(AP)—Injuries received last week when the automobile in which he was riding on the state highway between Valdosta and Quitman was struck by an automobile going in the same direction, resulted in the death today at a local hospital of William A. Sims, 50, well known traveling salesman.

Settle had previously sent a telegram to Hoover asking the nominee to state his personal stand on the farm relief question. "It is my purpose," Hoover said in his message, "to refrain from making any public declaration regarding policies or issues until my acceptance speech, when I will deal with the subject fully."

Settle said that the farm relief question was a subject of the greatest importance to the state and that he was sure that Hoover would deal with it in a satisfactory manner.

MASSSES INVITED TO PROHI MEETING

Invitations have been sent to the rank and file of southern democrats to attend the prohibition conference at Asheville, N. C., July 18-19, and "were not sent to any persons prominent in political affairs," Dr. Arthur J. Barton said here Wednesday night in a statement issued on his return from the North Carolina city, where he conferred with Bishop James T. Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, regarding plans for the meeting.

Declaring the movement had met "a most general and gratifying response," Dr. Barton's statement said the meeting was "not a movement of political leaders, but a movement of the masses of southern democracy with deep devotion to their party and a deep conviction as to the moral issues involved in the present campaign."

The first session of the conference will be called at 3 p. m. Dr. Barton said, with a public mass meeting Wednesday night and conferences throughout the following day.

Dr. Barton again said that he and Bishop Cannon in calling the conference at Asheville, "have acted and are acting entirely on their own personal responsibility."

Dr. Barton is a prominent Anti-Saloon League worker and superintendent of the church edifice department of the Southern Baptist convention and member of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League.

King Ben's Cult Riots Over 14 Crates of Fruit

Benton Harbor, Mich., July 11.—(AP)—A state of open hostilities existed tonight between two factions in the House of David colony, once a unit in the main under the iron rule of the late "King" Benjamin Purnell.

The ill will between the rival groups seeking to rule the cult since "King" Benjamin's death last November led to physical clashes today on the colony grounds.

Deputy sheriffs were called out to quell a riot participated in by about 60 colonists, some of them women who fought over possession of 14 crates of cherries raised in a colony orchard. A leader of one of the warring factions was arrested for attacking a colony officer.

Supporting Queen Queen Mary Purnell, widow of Benjamin, and W. H. Dewhurst, colony attorney, both of whom aspire to the mantle cast down by the late ruler.

According to the story told today the hand-to-hand fight resulted when a group of about 30 of Mary's followers sought to haul away the 14 crates of cherries in a truck. They were charged by a group of an equal number of Dewhurst's followers because they had not obtained a written permit from Ray Hornbeck, director of farms and a member of the Dewhurst faction, to take the fruit. Dewhurst appeared on the scene but did not engage in the battle.

Deputy sheriffs stopped the fight. Both groups were taken to the sheriff's office and by agreement the cherries were given to the faction supporting "Queen" Mary.

Warrant Obtained.

However, Max Blume one of Mary's followers, obtained a warrant charging Hornbeck with assault and he was arraigned and released to appear July 20.

Paul Perriotti, another one of Mary's supporters who had taken part in the clash, is alleged to have attacked Frank Wyland, a colony deputy, in a dispute over possession of some keys.

Perriotti was charged with assault and also is to appear July 20 for hearing.

The feeling between the two factions first became tense about a month ago when Mary ordered the tenants of 15 House of David buildings in Benton Harbor to pay rent directly to her instead of to the colony depository, but last night was the first time the two groups had come to blows.

Light Showers On Slate Today Says Forecast

With probable showers on the weather menu for this afternoon, difficulty of the Atlanta waterworks department in keeping a clear water supply for Atlanta is expected to be greater, according to Acting Mayor Claude Ashley, who is chairman of the water committee of city council.

"Muddy waters caused by the heavy precipitations of the past few days have added to the worries of the department and have caused the water to be delivered to citizens in a slightly cloudy form," Mr. Ashley said.

"This, however, does not mean that there is any organic matter or that the condition is in the least dangerous. It does indicate, however, that despite the use of a carload of alum for coagulating purposes every five days during the rainy season as against one every three weeks in normal weather the red clay is not entirely precipitated in the vats and part of it goes into the lines."

The new 40,000-gallon-a-day capacity pump will be ready for use within a short time, and a 20,000-gallon pump will be kept in reserve.
